

Guide to Popular Cell Phone Features

Oregon Wireless Specialties offers a wide variety of cell phone features to fit your needs and preferences. When purchasing a cell phone, consider these questions:

- Is it for your job or for personal use, or both?
- Which features are essential and which are optional?
- Would you like to use the phone to take photos or record short videos?

Features available on many of our phones:

Bluetooth-enabled

Bluetooth technology enables completely wireless mobility up to 30 feet from a device. You can talk on your phone without holding it if you wear an earpiece.

Camera

Many phones now come with digital cameras embedded in them. The quality of the photos differs from phone to phone. Imagine the convenience of using your phone as a camera. You will be prepared whenever you want to take a photograph.

Color Display

Color displays have become increasingly popular in recent years. They consume more battery power than monochrome displays, but are important if you plan to view photos and browse the Internet from your phone.

Downloadable Ringtones

Ringtones can be downloaded directly to some of the phones we offer. There is a wide variety of ringtones available. Choose your favorite song or sound effect. On some phones, you can even choose a different ringtone for specific callers. When a certain song plays, you'll know exactly who is calling without even looking at the display screen.

MP3 Player

The MP3 player feature allows you to listen to music files on your phone, usually through an attached headset. The music files can be downloaded from your computer onto your phone.

All our phones come equipped with caller ID, but some have a photo caller ID feature. These enable you to view the photo of the person calling you. Photos must be pre-assigned to contacts for this feature to work.

Removable Memory Card

Some phones come with a slot for a removable memory card. This is useful if you intend to use your phone to store photos, keep extensive contact information, or browse the Internet.

Speakerphone

Speakerphones enable you to talk on the phone without speaking directly into the microphone and holding the phone in your hand. They are particularly helpful when more than one person needs to participate in a conversation.

Video Recorder

With a video recorder, you can record short videos onto your cell phone. The videos can then be viewed on your phone or sent to others by e-mail.

Voice-activated Dialing

This feature allows you to call a contact by speaking the name. For each contact, you must record yourself saying the person's name. Voice-activated dialing is helpful when you want to keep your hands free while driving or completing a task.
